Spa Magazine – Silver Sage Reader's Choice Awards – August 2010

Top 5 Favorite Affordable Spa” and “Top 5 Favorite Mineral Springs Spas”

Santa Fean Magazine “Native Knowledge”

There’s a good reason Native American communities have strong health-care traditions based on some of the best resources available like natural hot springs and local herbs. The 142-year old Ojo Caliente Mineral Springs has earned its authentic, even sacred vibe.”

Native Where2NowMag.com “Mud, Golf, Ruins and More in Northern New Mexico” – July 2010

“Yep, we had mud on the brain ... the perfect ingredient to an affordable spa day in the desert southwest ... I don’t know many other palces where you can stand around an urn and make friends and mud each other.”

Budget Traveler “New Mexico’s Wave” – July 2010

“Ojo Caliente helped jump-start New Mexico’s now ubiquitous spa culture ... Last year’s multimillion-dollar overhaul turned the once kitschy spread into an affordable full-service resort”

Sunset Magazine “Southwest Weekend” – June 2010

“Make it a Southwest Weekend at Ojo Caliente: Take the waters, hit the trails, do yoga in a yurt, refuel and unwind at the Artesian Restaurant, and then spend the night in one of the newly built cottages or suites.”

Bienvenidos – 2010 Summer Guide

“At Ojo Caliente, lathering yourself in Northern New Mexico mud and sitting in the sun until it bakes, cracks and falls off is a slice of heaven.”

Santa Fean Magazine “Restoration Destination” – June/July 2010

“At the beautiful Ojo Caliente Mineral Springs Resort & Spa, rustic has gone remarkable, country culinary. It’s a must-visit for anyone who yearns to unwind in a unique New Mexico locale. The quality of the food and whole dining experience make this a worthy stop for serious city folk foodies.”

805 Living “Viva New Mexico” – May 2010

“It’s the signature spa treatments and affordable accommodations that attract serenity-seeking girlfriends to this rustic retreat.”

Trip Advisor – 2010 Travelers’ Choice Destination Awards

Taos News “People’s Choice Awards” - 2010

“Best Weekend Getaway” and “Second Most Romantic Spot” in Taos County.

New Mexico Magazine “Easy Rider” - May 2010

"Ojo Caliente’s soothing pools set against scenic cliffs, lovely guest rooms, and a fine restaurant are the perfect way to cap of the day’s ride."

Ojo Caliente Mineral Springs Resort & Spa: "Accolades / In the News" cont'd...

Elle Canada - March 2010

"With the desert that inspired Georgia O'Keefe as your backdrop, stepping into these warm waters is both an artistic and a hedonistic pleasure."

New York Magazine Online – March 2010

"The Five-Point Weekend Escape Plan – New Mexico"

Albuquerque The Magazine "Romantic Getaway for Two" – March 2010

"Get out your swimsuit—there's a secluded oasis in Northern New Mexico intended for you to relive your honeymoon by relaxing in luxurious hot mineral springs and indulging in spa treatments. And the best part is that you may not even need to fill up your gas tank to get there."

Chicago Tribune "A Healing Place" – March 2010

"Luxurious without pretension, Ojo Caliente has deep roots in the past, but has been updated for spa lovers. And everyone that works there seems happy, maybe because they can use the spa for free."

Denver Post "Taos's Creative Soul Still Burns Bright" - March 2010

"The town's new tourism theme, 'Return to Sacred Places,' could be personal, calling to mind the area's many spas, hot springs and relaxing lodgings. Added to the ever-growing artist's colony and thriving ski area, the theme gives visitors plenty to do."

New Mexico Magazine "Luxe Escape" - March 2010

"Resort-ish it most definitely is—from its excellent on-site bar and restaurant, to yoga classes, to massages, to its three private, clothing-optional pools, to the hedonistically up-scale cottages. These efforts not only retain Ojo's unique New Mexican flavor, they set it apart from the removed, high-end otherworldliness of spas."

New Mexico Magazine "Lite Bites" - March 2010

"Executive Chef Neil Stuart is well-equipped to delight his guests....and creates wholesome meals that range from seasonal Southwestern favorites to international fare, and the Artesian's fine wine bar and lounge are hits with regulars and newcomers alike."

Dishola.com – 2009

Food critic Laura Kelso writes "Big kudos to the folks at The Artesian Restaurant....they keep their standards sky high, while maintaining affordable prices to boot. Quite possibly the best Garden Burger I've ever had."
